YOU MUST HEAR about Little Mat Pica Pi's Intercollegiate jumping frog from Cal in San Luis Obispo. The angle is that Little Pica Pi managed (?) by Albany's Austin Angell, Jr., son of Austin and Mattie. The little rascal jumped 12 feet, eight inches at the annual Angel's Camp Frog Jumping contest this year, leading a field of 12 collegiate entries. One, from the University of Illinois and named the Long, came to California jet—yet. Austin is a member of the Society of Printing Engineers.

The benefit, however, is this week—June 6 through 11. He hopes the people will return because he has set a goal of $1,000 to be divided between his two pet charities.

Everything at the club will be offered at regular prices. Hors d'oeuvres will be served and daily prizes awarded. Most of the prizes will be distributed Saturday night when the benefit ends.

BCDC Session

Albany Ordered to Halt Bay Fill or Face Lawsuit

The Bay Conservation and Development commission voted 20-1 last Thursday to ask Albany to voluntarily stop filling the bay until the legality of the operation of the sanitary landfill is determined, to ask the attorney general to prepare a complaint against the city if the fill is not halted, and to ask representatives of the city to appear at the BCDC meeting June 17.

BCDC members generally seem to have decided the landfill is illegal, does not come under the "grandfather clause" of the McAttee-Petris act and should be halted. This is the tone of the "staff report," a lengthy tome prepared by staff member Alvin Baum, Jr.

Commissioner Herbert Crowle said Albany should be given until the first meeting in July, which it requested, to prepare its report. He said the city is trying to cooperate and that he thought it would be unfortunate if BCDC proceeded "in a manner that assumes Albany is in conflict."

Administrative Officer James B. Turner and City Attorney Larry Saler were the only Albany officials present. Council last Tuesday night voted to send a letter and resolution requesting more time because May 31 was the first opportunity it had to officially consider the BCDC request for an appearance and explanation last Thursday. (See Council story.)

Turner was asked how much fill would be placed in the bay before the meeting July 7. He said current fill is going behind dikes and fences. He told BCDC members he could not guarantee there would be no actual filling of the bay, adding only Council could do that.

Stating that a representative from the Port of Oakland earlier had presented a detailed, illustrated report on its operations, Turner asked for a month to prepare a similar report for Albany. He said Albany does not feel it

Dinner Meeting

Joe Dagna Outlines Goals As C of C President

Joe Dagna, installed as president of Albany Chamber of Commerce at the annual meeting at Serb's last Wednesday night, promised a well-balanced, useful program of activities and an effort to improve the image of the Chamber of Commerce.

Paying tribute to outgoing president William I. Garren for "the fine work which has been the hallmark of your term," Dagna said the office at 1108 Solano will be remodeled, including a meeting room to stimulate interest among members.

Dagna recalled his interviews with Maid of Albany candidates at the recent contest. Every girl answered "friendly" when asked why she liked Albany.

"Friendly... what a wonderful word that is. In this age of big government, big business and big world problems, it's the good word that we can become best known for. Think about it yourself and then look around at your neighbors...."

"We have a good organization, staff and a willing board; our dues are right and services are good; every committee is ready for business; you are enthusiastic, we are enthusiastic, so let's be the organization to which business and professional people want to belong, not just for today but every day," he concluded.

Dagna complimented Secretary-Manager Neal Clarity who, he predicted, will "grow with the Chamber."

City Council Planning to Answer BCDC on June 17

Albany City Council Monday night asked Administrative Officer James B. Turner to prepare a report on the city's bay fill operation by next Monday night for presentation to members of the Bay Conservation and Development commission at its meeting June 17.

Turner said he could prepare something, but "it will not be as good or as complete as I would like it."

Councilman Joe Egenberger noted it took the BCDC staff three months to prepare the "staff report" on Albany for the commission and that it did not seem fair to give the city such a

High Lights Of May 31 Council Meeting

Albany City Council last Tuesday night voted unanimously to send a letter and resolution to Bay Conservation and Development Commission asking for more time to prepare a complete report on the city's bay fill operations.

BCDC had requested city officials to appear last Thursday in Oakland, but Council had not met since May 16 and did not feel one day was sufficient to prepare a proper report (see separate story).

In a lengthy, often chilly, confrontation under "good of the city," councilmen defended their actions to Ann Berry, a member of the Albany Bay committee, who told them they should suspend the fill operation at the foot of Buchanan.

Another item on the agenda was a letter from Robert Schneider, manager of Patron Services Cooperative, Inc., asking that his request for a permanent permit be reviewed. The matter was referred to City Attorney Larry Saler to see if a public hearing is necessary, but it was obvious during discussion that Schneider now has the necessary majority in Councilmen Lewis Howell and Joe Carlevaro and Mayor Richard O. Clark. Councilmen George Hein and Joe Egenberger stressed that a formula on issuing cab permits has been set up and should be followed.

Police Chief Ralph Jensen's recommendations that the resignation of Ronald Gagnon be accepted with regret and that Roger Freeman be appointed probationary patrolman effective June 1 passed unanimously.

Council accepted Administrative Officer James B. Turner's recommendation to sign a one-year extension on the contract between Albany Library and Alameda County for library services. They unanimously granted a request for a variance permit at 1003 Solano and directed a resolution drawn providing for changes and alterations at University Village Pre-school Nursery, cost to be borne by the school district.

Several resolutions, previously reported, were unanimously adopted and communications with regard to parks and historical points were referred to the Park and Recreation commission.

The proposed change will eliminate apartment construction on portions of the easterly side of Adams and the westerly side of Kains. Zoning will change from the present CE-4, which allows apartment houses of a minimum of eight units, to CE-3, which prohibits apartments.

BART Asks Federal Funds for Park

LOTS OF GIRDERS have gone over the span since this photo was taken of the Rapid Transit concrete piling in Albany. Transit directors are seeking $540,000 in federal funds to create a linear park under the 2.7 miles of aerial structure, one mile of which cuts through Albany. The parkway is expected to bring a new element of beauty into established residential sections.

Al Drozda Honored By B-A PTA

Members of the Berkeley-Albany PTA council gave one of two honorary life memberships to Albany's Al Drozda at its recent year-end luncheon.

Mrs. William Koser, who made the presentation, reviewed his activities including president of Marin Dads club and vice president of Albany High Band Boosters.

He was chairman of the annual fish fry to raise funds for band and orchestra and was the moving force behind the band concert in the park last year which raised more than $400 for new uniforms and put the fund campaign over the top. It was sponsored by Legion post 292, of which he is past commander.

Tireless worker on behalf of child welfare projects of the Legion, Al and his wife, Ginger, are the parents of two teenage daughters. He has been active in Boy Scout troop 12 and Marin cub pack 50, sponsored bowling teams for youth and was chairman of the March of Dimes basketball game. Drozda is the newly-elected president of Albany Lions club.

Mrs. George Ferreira of Albany, president for two terms, received her past president's pin. Among new officers is Mrs. Max Klemm of Albany, second vice president.

Dagna and other officers were installed by Supervisor Kent D. Pursel, who called Garren "a selfless man, who has done what you thought best for Albany to the best of your ability."
Pursel remarked that Albany is a unique city without the serious problems of civil disobedience, redevelopment and law enforcement of other cities in the area.
"The future of Albany is tied up in and is a challenge to the Chamber of Commerce," he said. Master of Ceremonies Hal Denham introduced nearly every person who crowded the banquet room of Serb's. In most cases he could make a friendly comment about the person. He said of Pursel: "He's a great man, a great credit to the area, a man I'd like to help make governor of California."
Garren, who received a past president's plaque from Dagna, chose to make six presentations of presidential awards instead of the usual one. is in conflict with the McAttee-Petris Act.
Chief witness for the prosecution was a member of the Albany Bay committee, Herbert Rubin, who noted he was making his second presentation to BCDC. He said he cannot accept the fact that Albany is acting entirely in good faith, that if the position of the city were consistent with the tideland grant, it would not be such an effort to bring information to BCDC.
"It is a bit outrageous," he said, "that the city has been asked to appear twice and can now claim that a meeting of League of California Cities was of such moment, they are now unable to take care of this business. . . ."
"Quite bluntly, the city is trying to evade the jurisdiction of this body and responsibility for its actions," he said.
Rubin said he had brought quite a bit of material but would be presenting it in a vacuum since the city "does not choose to speak."
He urged BCDC to direct Albany to cease filling the bay, "or, if it seems appropriate, a more stringent action."
Albany's fill was compared to Emeryville's, which was stopped

Education Board Wrestles Financial Woes

The Board of Education of Albany Unified School District will meet June 14 to adopt a final budget, but members are unhappy with the make-do preliminary budget, which calls for reduction in services in the amount of $38,000. That amount will be added to the dwindling reserve account.

In presenting the preliminary budget May 31, Superintendent Kenneth M. Forry said the district has very serious financial problems. It must finance an instructional program which has been affected by inflation, maintain a competitive salary level and replace instructional material. In addition, the district has to provide new equipment and finance capital improvements on aging school buildings.

Elimination of the traditional summer school this year was one of the first cutbacks made by the board after the failure of the proposed 50-cent tax increase last April. Now it has junked plans to improve the site at Albany High school, where new buildings are under construction; in fact, it has eliminated a telephone extension to the new buildings. Also gone are plans to continue an after-school summer recreational program for elementary and eighth grade children at city playgrounds this summer, saving $5,200.

Other reductions which make up the $38,000 are foregoing purchase of new math, science and English textbooks and replacement of worn but usable texts.

Plus eliminating texts which would have been used at summer school ($4,600); purchase of reference materials and books for the library ($1,500); purchase of supplies in such departments as vocational, arts and crafts, summer elementary school ($9,100); teacher aides-readers ($1,000); building alterations ($2,700).

Forry warned of over-optimism concerning funds which may be available to the district by July 1, when assessed valuation and income will be known. The board, however, is expected to pass a resolution June 14, reserving the right to increase the salary scale after the beginning of the new fiscal year.

Another ray of hope is the possibility that the proposed increase in the tax rate will again come before Albany voters Nov. 8, and pass. The amount of the increase to be requested has not been set. Board Member Max Kelley expressed dismay because many parents of children enrolled in Albany schools did not vote April 12. The proposed tax increase of 50 cents, which required a simple majority, failed 2,254 to 2,009.

Forry listed several possibilities of action: establishment of a long range replacement, maintenance and alteration program; a modest bond issue to finance necessary maintenance and alteration work with purchase of new equipment as needed, freeing general fund money for the instructional program, including salaries; reduction of the program to meet only minimum and mandated requirements of the education code.

The superintendent also reported he has heard nothing from UC President Clark Kerr on the latest board request for a meeting to discuss the problem of educating children from University Village.

Once a flickering flame

Gas utility service—as an American industry—is now 150 years old.

In its youth it was just a gas light. It has grown to serve vast fuel and energy needs of a robust, mushrooming nation.

And for you? Is the warmth your family enjoys gas heat? Is that breath of cool, fresh air on a scorching day from gas air conditioning?

Did you bake, boil or barbecue faster and easier today with natural gas?

Was the hot water for your dishes, baths and washing heated with gas?

Let's go to industry: Have you ever seen a massive steam boiler fired by gas? Or watched a natural gas torch slice through 16 inches of steel like so much suds in a sink?

Or, for that matter, did you realize that natural gas is one of the prime fuels for generating the electricity you use daily?

That's just part of what 150 years of growing young looks like; something very tangible, very vital.

You and millions of other Californians—at home and in industry—seem to agree, because for PG&E customer service today, that once flickering flame is...

Spicer-Leonard Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Gary James Leonard
(Carol Lynne Spicer)

Recent rites at Bethany Lutheran church in Berkeley united in marriage Carol Lynne Spicer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Spicer of 1017 Ramona, Albany, and Gary James Leonard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leonard of 1632 Navellier of El Cerrito.

The bride selected a gown of Schiffli embroidered organza over taffeta fashioned with empire waist, scooped neckline and elbow-length sleeves. Seed pearls and sequins trimmed the bodice and the skirt was a line to the floor. Her chapel-length train, which fell from an organza bow just below the shoulders, featured an embroidered orchid pattern. The elbow-length silk illusion veil fell from a pearl and crystal crown and she carried a cascade bouquet of white butterfly orchids, white miniature carnations, camellia leaves and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Richard Eggers of Pleasant Hill was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Lewis of Berkeley, Miss Bernice Lauri, and Mrs. Richard Anderson, both of Albany.

Richard Eggers was best man. Ushers were James Spicer of Albany, Cliff Ojala, Pinole, and Jim Blackburn, Concord.

The couple is at home in Concord.

REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT CONFERENCES IN JUNE

Is California entering the most dynamic real estate growth era in the state's history? How can the investor profit by such growth?

These are questions that will be posed and analyzed during the 5th annual conference on Real Estate Investment being sponsored by the California Real Estate Association June 13-14 at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles and June 16-17 at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

Among the real estate and financial experts on the faculty of the two-day conference will be Angus Wynne, Jr., of Arlington, Texas, chairman of the board of Maccos Corporation. According to Ira Gribbin of Encino, chairman of CREA's Education committee, Wynne will answer the first question with a resounding "yes," and give tips on answering the second.

Macco has invested heavily in real estate in California.

E. Tennyson Moore of Long Beach, chairman of the CREA Investment Conference committee, said that six experts in research and market analysis, syndication, taxes, franchise, leases and investment property financing will serve on the faculty.

"CREA's annual Real Estate Investment Conference is the most popular course in our Real Estate Education Certificate Program," Moore commented. "This is the 5th year it has been presented and each year has attracted a sell-out attendance."

Moore said the conference is open to Realtors, real estate salesmen and investors. He said the $50.00 registration fee includes all lecture and workshop sessions, a conference text, with chapters written by faculty members, special notebook and two luncheons.

He urged those interested to make reservations at once to avoid disappointment. Reservations should be made through the California Real Estate Association, 520 South Grand Avenue, Los Angeles, California.

In addition, 26,011 articles of clothing, 2,570 pieces of furniture, 6,749 miscellaneous articles, and 344 pair of shoes were sold at low cost to low income families. Seventy-five persons were employed in the Volunteers of America stores, and as drivers and helpers on their pickup trucks.

Four meetings of the Sunset club were held for senior citizens, nine hospital visits were made, five shut-ins were visited, and one excursion by AC Transit bus was made for senior citizens.

KENSINGTON LIONS DONATE UNIT TO FIRE DEPARTMENT

Members of the Kensington Lions club have announced the donation of a $162 aero-fog room deodorizer generator to the Kensington Fire District. Formal presentation will take place at the Aug. 9 meeting of the Kensington Fire District.

In commenting on the gift, Lions Club President Jack Gaines said the room deodorizing unit will be available through the fire department at no charge to those Kensington residents who desire to rid their homes of pungent food smells or lingering smokey odors. Gaines said the unit is particularly effective in ridding a home of such obnoxious odors as burnt rubber, plastics or smoke caused by electrical fires. The Lions club is providing the

Fire Plug

A great deal of discussion has been given to what use are old plastic bleach containers. They will make cute piggy banks and other items of a like nature but they should never be considered for use as containers of flammable liquids.

Recent impact tests showed that they will rupture at the seams when dropped. They will also melt under abnormal high temperatures. These containers were made to hold the product that was originally packed and no other liquid. The householder should store flammables in a metal container. This is not only a sensible and safe practice but it is also California State law. The householder should have no greater quantity of flammable liquids around the house than one gallon. Be sure it is capped and stored in a well ventilated area away from any flame or heat source.

Dog Obedience

A dog obedience class will be offered at University Park. The course will consist of one hour classes each Saturday. Classes start the first Saturday of the month, beginners 9 a.m. and intermediate 10 a.m. Minimum age for children is 10 years and the minimum age for dogs is six months. Each participant must have a six foot training lead and chain collar for his dog. We are fortunate to have Mary Culley as an instructor.

Golf Lessons

Through the cooperation of Golden Gate Fields, the Recreation Department is offering a series of golf lessons. A series of six one hour lessons will be available for the nominal price of $10 for the six-week period. Practice balls will be furnished at half price and clubs are available. Special emphasis will be placed on rules and regulations and especially on golf etiquette. Depending on the response of those interested, classes will be available for either morning or evening for both beginners and intermediate players. A minimum of six participants is necessary to start the series of lessons. Tennis lessons will be offered for both children and adults. For further information concerning any phase of the program, or if there is a question you would like to be answered, please call the Recreation Office at 525-5704 or 525-5705.

Matinee Season Ticket Sale Dates Announced

Junior Matinee Season benefit tickets will be available at Cornell, MacGregor, Marin and Vista schools during the lunch hours on Wednesday, June 8, and Thursday, June 9, of this week and on June 15 and 16. Three hundred season benefit tickets will be available on a first come-first served basis due to the limited seating capacity. Flyers were sent home earlier this week with complete information.

All films selected have the National Legion of Decency A-1 rating. Six films have received the Parents Magazine Family Medal or Special Merit Award and all films have the Parents Magazine rating of from good to excellent for children.

The film to be shown at the first matinee, June 22, at 1 p.m., is an amazing science fiction adventure by Jules Verne. In the days following the Civil War, a source of infinite energy is discovered and used by a scientist, his associates, and his pretty daughter to fire a projectile with themselves inside toward the moon. The film is spectacular and a guaranteed spellbinder. It features an all-star cast. The first chapter of the continuous serial "Lost City" will also be shown.

For further information call Mrs. Dennis, 526-7948, or Mrs. Tronoff, 526-4522.
